GREETINGS TO YOU!!

I am so excited about our upcoming 2017 International Lecture Series in Cape Town, South Africa! We have successfully expanded our collective influence to reach the “Motherland” and this is our time to truly create and affect global change with the work that we have done and plan to do. Along with one of South Africa’s oldest nongovernmental Organizations (NGO) and Cape Peninsula University of Technology, we have an opportunity to go and share our work with educators, clinicians, NGOs, and other organizations about the continuum of sexuality and relationships and how people of African descent have been resilient over time, context, and circumstance. The goal of this conference is to initiate formal international discourse about those mental, sexual, educational, and public health issues that affect this unique population in an effort to develop culturally sensitive strategies and interventions.

In addition to the lecture series, we will also have an opportunity to learn about South African history, culture, people, and food. South African is unique in that it is inhabited by people from all over the world. This unique cross-cultural experience for us will entail a lifetime of new memories and friendships. When I visited South Africa this past summer, our brothers and sisters in Cape Town extended their hospitality and goodwill to me and it felt like I was “home.” Because of this familiar feeling, I knew that this could be a special place and venue for us to share, learn, grow, and heal.

I hope that you will join the ABSC for this once in a lifetime, epic event.

Cheers!

James
